

Middlebury College
Computer Science Seminar

Grad School Info Session

Are you planning to apply to grad school? Not sure about your future plans, but curious about why or how you would go to CS graduate school? In partnership with CCI, the CS department is hosting a short seminar on the why, how, and when of applying to CS graduate school (or related disciplines). Whether you are senior preparing an application, or you are just starting the major and thinking about your future plans, this seminar will be full of useful information.
